the Widow Dennison. Full particulars of the affair we were unable to learn, but give such as could be gathered up to a late hour last evening.

It appears that a young man named Wilbur F. Dougherty has for nearly two years past been paying his attentions to Mrs. Dennison, and it is reported that not only were they greatly attached to each other, but were also engaged to be married. Some little time ago, for some cause unknown, they quarrelled and parted. Afterward the matter was amicably settled, but, at the instance of Mrs. Dennison, the alarmed. The curse reaches so high, was too much for the gallant Gauls. marriage was postponed from time to Yesterday afternoon Doughershe should marry him on the coming Saturday. This was heard by parties in an adjoining room; the next thing heard was the report of a pistol followed by an agonizing scream from the woman. They rushed to the room and found Dougherty standing over the body, having a single barrel in his hand. Mrs. Dennison was lying upon had passed entirely through her heart, and death must have been almost instantaneous. Dougherty was soon after arrested by Justice Jennings, of to the examination of the school taught Wheatland, and placed on board the up train, which had just arrived, and brought to this city. He was safely lodged in the county jail, where a charge of murder was preferred against The utmost excitement prevailed in Wheatland at the time the train left, it being regarded as a most deliberate and brutal murder by the residents. They believe that he went to none, and with charity for all, I himsaid, left a big link out of his chain of school funds, (if the teachers suggest the house with the intention of com- plore the good people of this city to mitting murder.
